“Experiences to tell everyone who'll listen

Breathing underwater for the first time is spellbinding. I was listening to every breath to begin with as @lpha-Diver's hugely impressive instructor helped me get the hang of it.

But before I knew it, I wasn't thinking about breathing at all. The buzz I got from the mesmerising views was just something else. And as I relaxed into it more and more, I thought to myself, 'I don't want this to end!' ”

One of the last few pictures taken, just before the ferry disappeared beneath the waves off the Larnaca coast

The Zenobia; by far the best dive in the Med!

The Zenobia was a Swedish roll-on, roll-off ferry carrying articulated lorries. More than 100 of these were still shackled in place when she went down in July 1980.

A monster wreck displacing more than 10,000 tonnes, it is more than 178m in length and now lies on its port side. It's still possible to recognise some of the lorries' cargo remains. Today, it's been acclaimed as one of the world's top three dives and is an experience not to be missed!

Our dive boat 'Kalypso II' runs scuba trips twice a day to the Zenobia Ferry wreck, often referred to as the best wreck in the world! If wreck diving and wreck penetration is your thing, this could well be the dive of your life.

We take divers to all areas dependent on their ability. This includes the Bridge; Restaurant; Duty Free shop; Chain lockers; Lift Shaft; upper, middle and lower vehicle decks (where you can see dozens of trucks full of sunken cargo) and even to the Engine Room.

When Cyprus' tourist board and airline put their weight behind an official documentary about Zenobia's mysterious sinking, @lpha-Divers was the dive team chosen to help capture the underwater footage

Spoil yourself on Cyprus' special dive sites

The Zenobia wreck may well be the biggest jewel in Cyprus' dive crown, but it's also surrounded by several other extraordinary sites around the island we'd be delighted to take you to see.

With clear waters and calm seas, visibility is amazing wherever we take you diving around Cyprus.

@lpha-Divers offer amazing diving in the South of Cyprus. We did five dives while we were with them and each one offered a completely different experience... thanks for the professionalism, the friendship & most of all the fantastic memories!
